

Celebrate Earth Day on April 21, 11 am - 2 pm!

Local organizations will be present to share awareness for environmental and sustainability issues. Good Foods continuously strives to be a positive community resource through environmental education, by supporting local sustainability, and by offering family entertainment and activities. This event is an ideal way to unite our community in honor of Earth Day.

Good Foods will be giving away a rain barrel ($99 value).

Participants can sign up to win at the Good Foods table.

Good Foods will also be giving away 100 tomato plants and peppers during the event.

11 am – 12 pm:

Worm Composting for Kids (and Adults!)

Join Sustainable Communities Network Founder Jim Embry for an engaging workshop that is sure to get you and your kids excited about WORMS! Learn how to create a worm bin and turn kitchen waste into rich compost in your home. Good Foods Rochdale Room.

*This session is free; sign up in advance to ensure space. Call (859) 278-1813 to reserve your space.

11 am – 2 pm:

Organizations attending include:

- Bluegrass PRIDE
- "Coop"erative of Lexington Urban Chicken Keepers
- Global Environmental Services
- Good Foods Market & Café
- Habitat for Humanity/ReStore
- happyPLACE (Get creative with happyPLACE's painting wall)
- LFUCG's Division of Environmental Policy
- Sierra Club, Cumberland Chapter
- Sustainable Communities Network
- Transylvania University's Sustainable Smoothie Bike
- Wild Ones
- And more!

RECYCLE YOUR ELECTRONICS: Representatives from Global Environmental Services will be on hand to provide information about electronics recycling as well as collect equipment from the community. GES provides secure data destruction, electronics recycling, and e-waste processing. GES accepts all electronic items (computers, monitors, printers, keyboards, mice, modems, hubs, routers, fax machines, scanners, copy machines, cell phones, miscellaneous units, and components). GES does NOT accept appliances. Please call GES for details (502) 570-8545 or visit www.gesrecycles.com.

